

Has Your Credit Info Been Hacked?

Equifax, one of the three major consumer credit reporting agencies, has said that hackers had gained access to company data that potentially compromised sensitive information for 143 million American consumers, including Social Security numbers and driver's license numbers.

If you have not already done so, you should check to see if your personal information was included by going to the following website;

www.equifaxsecurity2017.com

While you are at this site you will be offered the opportunity to enroll in Equifax's credit protection service, which is free for one year for consumers who enroll by Nov. 21, is available to everyone and not just the victims of the breach.

This would also be a good time to check copies of your of your Free credit report from the three major credit bureaus: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion. These are available at

<https://www.annualcreditreport.com/index.action>